DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 19-21, 37 and 82-105 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mariant '027 in view of Hess '978, along with Heaven.

Mariant discloses in figures 1-6 a tubular structure 11, having a first end, a second end and a lumen 16 and a tissue ingrowth element 12. However, Mariant doesn't disclose the tubular element being able to expand from a first configuration to a second configuration, the tubular structure including a lattice framework or the tubular structure having an open wall. Hess teaches in figures 1-13 a heat recoverable tissue supporting device comprising a tubular member 10 that is expandable from a first configuration to a second configuration, having a lattice framework (16, 18) and an open wall structure (fig. 1). The tubular member can be made of copper alloy (col. 1, lines 50-52). Heaven teaches in figure 6-9 a tubular structure made of a copper alloy (col. 1, lines 48-55). The tubular member is expandable from a first configuration to a second smaller configuration. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time that the invention was made that the tubular member disclosed by Mariant could be fabricated to expand from a first configuration to a second configuration as taught by Hess to allow the tubular member to occlude a passage in the body. The open framework would allow tissue to grow into the tubular member and the ingrowth element would allow tissue to grow around the tubular element. The copper alloy as taught by Heaven would allow the tubular member disclosed by Mariant to be formed of copper and to expand from a first smaller configuration to a second larger configuration.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 12-18 and 35-36 are allowed.
